YOU ARE

On a lazy summer afternoon, Katja Suletzki commits the beauty of brilliant red poppies to paper. The rainbow renews its promise over the town of Orono before fall paints the trees, and grave mowers retire from their work. The river reflects the pre-winter clouds which will soon cover the school in a white frosting of snow. As the state passes through its metamorphosis from winter to summer and back again, we go about our lives, wondering where we are.

ROAD SIGNS

Road signs are singular. They reveal individual shapes, purposes, and designs. They direct, measure, and enlighten. They warn and pacify. Some encourage; others discourage. They delimit stages of progress in a desired direction. Institutions also utilize road signs: interim reports, parent-teacher conferences, rank cards, athletic and co-curricular events, uniforms, and diplomas. These symbols indicate developmental stages, physical and mental skills and deficiencies, artistic awareness and sensibility, developed or undeveloped character, and levels of achievement. Interpreting these signs requires an observer gifted with wisdom and patience. Not all journeys form straight lines; not all travelers select identical routes.

As the flowers explode,
our galloping houses
inhale the Now and Then and telephone poles stride
back toward history
the compost memories
swivel like chairs,
recede with hairlines,
on the manifest alarm-
clock highway

GOWNS & TASSELS

The class of '89 graduated with a long list of attributes, well-earned and very deserved attributes. None can doubt Ann O' Leary's ingenuity. When Orono dropped track, Ann dropped Orono. Rich Shea's farewell address would offer stiff competition in any originality contest. In the senioritis category, three members of the class of '89 personify its characteristics: Dale Cross, Darrick Wood, and RJ Modery. Of course, originality and ingenuity would have been dull without the daring of Carl Moore's jeans and Elena DeSiervo's constant excitement. What could have been more adventurous than a fifteen player ice hockey team which came in third? Above all must have been the examples of loyalty (Carrie Meyers spent five years buried under layouts in room 65A), fairness (sixth graders flocked to the kind counselor Lara Curtis at Science Camp), and Darren Ranco's sensibility and logic. Last to arrive, official recognition of Andrew McGregor's procrastination. On June 11 the class of 1989 carried these traits with them through the gym and out into the open sky. They paused along the way for one last gathering at the Penobscot Valley Country Club and a quick breakfast at Burger King.

Not quite, but OHS students covered the globe in their wanderings. Some students explored the streets of Boston last April. Jay Harris decided to bike across the country to improve his skating skill. Sven Bonnichsen studied for six weeks in Japan. Jean Whitney buried herself in the accents and cities of Australia. Lars Carlson took a two week tour of the U.S.S.R. Katja Suletzki went back to her roots in Germany. Several apprentice French speakers practiced their craft in Ploërmel. The Spanish Club tasted the delicacies of Spain for ten days.

"Mikado" Charms OHS Audiences

Perhaps it was due to the mystique of the pre-curtain handshakes that the 1988 OHS production of Gilbert and Sullivan's THE MIKADO was a triumphant success. The diligent cast worked for almost two months, awakened to tortuously early Saturday morning rehearsals, sat through "inspiring" pep talks, obligingly ate cookies, occasionally engaged in snowball wars, and overcame absentee leading actors. Amid bird calls, cases of strep throat, and mysteriously appearing T.V. cameras, a tired but happy cast and crew pulled off a series of terrific performances. However, no one was too tired for a trip to Pat's and a cast party to celebrate the fall of the final curtain.

On May 13, 1989, the Bangor Hilton hosted the Orono prom. The Cabinet Room gleamed with rainbow colors. Surrounded by tables, each bearing a candle and ornamental emerald and silver balloons, a center dance floor dominated the room. Toward the middle of the evening, newly-crowned King and Queen for a Night, Chad Eddy and Jo Nevells, shared a coronation waltz. Soon the other couples joined in the celebration of a once-in-a-lifetime event. As the theme proclaimed, "These were the times to remember." While the dance ended at the stroke of midnight, unlike Cinderella who disappeared with the last violin note, J & M photos evoke memories of that special time and all those who made it possible.

The Girls' Spring Track team had an excellent season, placing sixth overall in the state championship, but the relay team of Lynn Curtis, Sarah Opitz, Katrina Opitz, and Hilary Roy turned in a first place finish. Hilary Roy broke the 100 meter dash record, and Karen Rosebush tied the high jump record. Sherry Abbott, the lone thrower, improved her distances all season. Distance runners Elise Arsenault, Ann O'Leary, and Karen Murray also had good seasons.

The 1989 Men's Spring Track team, with good participation from all classes, used its depth and talent to have a nearly perfect season. The Riots began right, cruising through the regular season to a 7-0 record. The long month of April was highlighted by: slush, "getting in shape at Camp Gerhardt", mud, more mud, and running through the mud with Coach Gallant. With warmer (and drier) weather came postseason where the Riots continued to excel. At the PVC meet in Ellsworth, Orono finished a close second to class A powerhouse Bangor. The Eastern Maine class C regional meet was a showcase for Riot talent as they rolled to victory. This set the stage for the State Championships. 37 teams came to OHS for the state meet and competition was stiff. Although Orono's only wins came from Matt Reiling (100m hurdles) and the 4x400 relay team of Bill Beutel, John Trefethen, Matt Ross and Nick Pearce, the Riot depth got the job done and brought home another state trophy.

Early season rainouts left the 1989 tennis team with a hectic schedule. A final week of six matches in five days erased the team's chances of postseason play. The '89 players found victory in their solo accomplishments. The greatest of these was Brandon Fox's fourth round showing at the State Individual Tournament. However, such players as the Duck, Skeets, Woody, Kritch, Thumper and Swifty boosted team morale.

The 1989 Orono High School softball team may have ended its season with the same 4-10 record as the 1988 season, but it was a new team. The big difference for the Red Riots was the coaching staff. First year head coach, Lynn Coutts, and first year assistant coach, Mary Nadeau, gave the team something it had lacked — team unity. The enthusiasm for the game was re-established by the new coaches as they began to build a team that will definitely be heard from in future seasons. Third baseman Lori Young was selected to the P.V.C. 1st team. Receiving honorable mentions were pitcher April Poulsen and short stop Sessa Salas. With a strong nucleus of starters returning, Orono Softball can do nothing but improve!

THE BASES

The 1989 baseball team had its ups and downs. The team made its annual trip south to Boston, and also showed that it could play with some competitive teams from southern Maine. In one of their best games, they shut out Hermon 14-0. When the end of the season rolled around, they had compiled four wins and ten losses, many of which were close games. Though Orono will miss the prowess of Casey Garland, the future looks extremely bright. Mr. Pelleriti should look forward to yet another year of Riot baseball with some well seasoned veterans.

Contrary to the belief that once you've grabbed your diploma, you run, on a certain fall evening alumni return as if lured by a strange supernatural pull, like the blue moon calls wolves. They come and stand on the sidewalks watching their successors walk through the streets, thinking back to the time when they too said, "What a waste! Why would anyone come back to this place?" Then they amble into the gym, where perhaps they haven't been since that day they muddled onto their diplomas. They listen to the jeers and cheers of the students and compare this year's skits to their own. They hear the students say "I'm not coming back!" and smile.

◀The Orono defense tries to fight an Indian raid.

This year's Riot football team consisted of more than fifty players, most of them inexperienced, but full of talent. The final record was 5-4, but that doesn't show how good the season really was. The season looked dreary from the injury standpoint, but this Riot team prevailed. The season was full of fine games as well as a few costly let downs. Two thirds through the season the only way to the playoffs, with a 3-3 record, was to finish the season without a loss. The first two steps accomplished, the final step was a battle against rival Old Town. Orono scored first with a field goal just before halftime. On the final play of Orono's next drive, the ball was on Old Town's four yard line on fourth down and one. The ball was fumbled twice, Old Town recovering. They scored with four minutes left, and again with one second left, to finish Orono's season with a 13-3 loss. The entire team has these and other memories to look back on with pride. The team will also always remember a good friend and football player, Gabe Gallagher.

The 1989 field hockey team ended its season with a 12-4-1 record. They were Eastern Maine runners up for the third time in five years. The team was lead by captains Ellen Hall and Jen Pelleriti, who attended the Junior Olympics in August. In the post-season, juniors Becca Allen and Kristin Veeder made second team PVC, Ellen Hall and Jen Pelleriti made first team PVC and All-State. Kristin Veeder, Ellen Hall and Jen Pelletiti made the Maine Sunday Telegram first team. Also Jen Pelleriti made the Penn Monto All-American team. The season was heightened by certain memories: Karen's stories and on field acrobatics, the Night Stalking Secret Psychers' Society, getting robbed by the officials against Old Town, Hayley's unbelievable Dover game, "Ooga Ah", the gun-slingers, Ellen and Cow's football games, "You're awesome Orono", and one important question ... "Who did it, Karen or Cow?"

This year the Orono boys' soccer team decided it wasn't satisfied with the previous tradition of losing three games to every win. This desire was present from the first practice to the Eastern Maine finals. The Riots were led to a 12-2-3 season by veteran head coach Larry Berthiaume and four captains, including the notorious founder of "creative up-downs." This year's team made hard work and creative team play the ingredients for The Big Enchilada. Their hopes ended with a 4-0 loss to Ellsworth, but they are keeping their eyes focused on the future. A new tradition has begun.

SHINOBEE

The girls' varsity soccer team had their best season yet. They won in the quarter final round of the tournament against Dexter 5-2. They lost to MCI in a heart breaking semifinal game 1-0. The unity of the team emerged during the season, showing in their skill. Some of the special moments of the season included the "fun Fridays" that Coach Cid Dyjak creatively put together; Stephanie Ford's first goal ever; the team consumption of the great oak leaf, and the whole soccer experience. Six players were selected to All-Star teams. Lori Young made the PVC All-Star first team, and Sessa Salas and Penny Moquin made the second team. Sherry Abbott made the PVC All-Star team and the All-Eastern Class B team. Jennie Thurlow was PVC first team, All-Eastern Class B, and All-New England first team. Hilary Roy was first team PVC, All-Eastern Class B, All-New England first team and All-American first team.

Having a less than wonderful record this year, the 1989 Golf team stayed in good spirits. Junior Andrew Cyr, known as the number one golfer on the team, shared his captain duties with senior John Jordan. The other senior, Ryan Elsemore added color and a touch of humor to the team. Juniors Matt Perry, Steve Page and Jeff Jacobs were the team's mainstays. Matt Perry, by working out a major slice, ended up with a straight stroke. Steve Page stayed constant throughout the season although Jeff Jacobs had a less than perfect year. The lone sophomore, Mike Simmons, was a surprise asset to the team. With a few more years experience, he could become a terrific golfer. Overall, the '89 golf team had a good season. Everyone learned something thanks to coach Paul Bessey, who kept the team together and provided a knowledgeable source of advice.

TEED OFF

▲▲The Orono cross country team executes another flying start.

▲Gaining on his Bangor opponent, Chris Ruge nears the finish.

The men's cross country team ended its season with its best record in years. The standing after the final meet was first in the PVC with 50 wins and 15 losses, second in the MDI invitational, second in the regionals and tied for fifth in the states. Not only did the team do well as a whole, but also, their individual performances were excellent. Three members were named to the all PVC teams: Matt Sucec, first team; Ryan White, second team; Ernie Mudgett, honorable mention. Even the coach was recognized this year as PVC coach of the year. Spontaneous comedy was mixed in with the serious running. Women falling all over Ernie Mudgett begged to have his children on the bus ride to the regionals. Big Dave brought the library earphones and cameo bandana and fell asleep. Terry O'Neal tried to impress women with his Southern accent. All things considered, it was a great season and will be remembered fondly.

With just seven members, not much was expected of the Orono Girls' Indoor Track team. Although unable to cover all the events, the high quality of the Riots in the sprinting and jumping competitions earned them a seventh place finish at the state meet and much respect from their opponents. Hilary Roy became the leader of Riot sprinters as the top performer in the 60 and 300 yd. dashes and the relay. She was joined by Lynn Curtis and Katrina Opitz in the 60 who were strong relay links, along with Kristin Veeder and Carrie Brown. Brown, along with Becky O'Leary, spread the Riot influence by competing in the 300 and 600 yd. runs. Sarah Opitz led the jumping events, becoming the state long jump champion and triple jump runner up. Karen Rosebush improved steadily in the high jump where she won fourth place at the state meet.

Athlete of the Month, Bill Beutel, became one of the top hurdlers in the league. ▼

It is almost impossible not to call Coach Joe Gallant an optimist. With nearly 30 members in the squad, Gallant believed he had the talent and the depth to win the Eastern Maine and Class B State titles. Senior tri-captains Matt Ross, Bill Beutel, and Dave Brewer led the way in a variety of events. The Riots amazed both themselves and Coach Gallant by racking up 22 wins on the regular season and the Eastern Maine Championship. The State Championship was the only goal left to be reached, but a tough team from Scarborough got in the way and handed the Riots a runner-up plaque. Bill Beutel turned in the season of his career, with dominance in the triple jump, the hurdles, and the 600 yd. run. Ross honed his skills in the high jump, 1000 yd. run, and the mile.

With a team-minded attitude, the Riots rolled to a 13-5 mark on the regular season and earned their fifth straight tournament berth. Ellen Hall, Jennie Thurlow, and Sessa Salas, had fabulous performances in the post-season, but were beaten in the semi-finals by a taller Houlton team. Juniors Lori Young, Sherry Abbott, and Jen Pelleriti, and sophomores Marcia Therrien and Sara Gardner also looked sharp for the Riots.

Having gained new found support from their fans and faculty, the 1989-90 Riot boys' team returned to the glory of past days. Dazzling the crowds with a fast paced offense and fabulous shooting touch. The Riots posted their first winning season in eight years, with a 15 — 3 record. Entering the tournaments ranked second, the Riots were beaten by the hard play of Ellsworth. The starting five members: Scott Ismail, Jamie Beaudoin, Chris Cameron, Mark Smith, and Jay Vetelino added to the Riot chemistry. Each of the five starters added a 20 point individual game during the regular season. Many of the juniors and sophomores believe they can continue their success for years to come. Going into their next season, the Orono boys' team's only loss to graduation will be Chris Cameron. Looking strong with juniors Scott Ismail, Jon Hume, Rob Yerxa, Mark Smith, and Joe Cota and returning sophomores Jay Vetelino, Andy Galeati and Jamie Beaudoin. The Riots are expecting another successful season.

MAKE A SPLASH

The girls' swim team was young and inexperienced, six veterans returning. Expectations were low and Coach Gary Therriault anticipated a rebuilding season. All this was forgotten when a group of energetic and talented underclassmen showed their stuff. There were some intensive "puke sets", violent water polo games, and plenty of food. The season wound down with a strong showing at the PVC championships, where, despite the measles, there were several great performances.

The Orono boys' swim team started out with only six dedicated members. With Co-Captains Theron Patterson and Sean Dougherty, there was always time for goofing off between sets. Because of the size, the team was like a family. The death of Mike Nickels was an especially difficult event for the team because he was so close to everyone. We miss him. There was never a practice or meet when he wasn't on our minds. We will always remember him and the memories he left with us — his bouncy smile, creative swimming style, and most of all, his enthusiasm and encouragement for all of us. This season was dedicated to the memory of Mike Nickels.

FALLING

In early November, The Orono Riots' hockey team started out with only a handful of newcomers. Although this lack of manpower predicted a bleak future, the Riots worked hard and put together a 12-6 regular season record, finishing third in Eastern Maine class B. The team often had to rotate eight or nine seniors against opponents' three full lines. The Riots, led by seniors Dylan Farnum, Nick Pearce, and Co-Captains Jay Harris and Brett Hale, got to know the penalty box very well, while turning in some record setting performances. A small, but highly skilled club, the Orono team entered the semi-finals in top condition.

Sophomore (saf-mo-re) knowledgeable, stupid ones. In other words we have underdeveloped skills. We are not foolish freshmen, but only one step higher. It is a period of transition, moving from the innocence of childhood to life as a young adult. For the first time we have the pleasure of making our own decisions and the responsibility of living with the consequences of our choices. Mistakes become the education of experience. The sophomore year is the halfway point of high school. Some find it a breeze, and some find it difficult. We all should find it enjoyable. We have come to an intersection on the highway of life. Which way will we go?

As juniors, finally we are not underclassmen; we have made it halfway through high school. We have to begin looking ahead towards college, SAT's, deciding where we want to go and what we want to do. Is the sophomore year the hardest and the junior year the most fun? We agree. Next year there is so much that will have to be done. It begins getting scary to think how fast the last two years have gone by; how fast will the next two go?

Like a hiker reaching the summit of a difficult mountain, as seniors we have reached an important peak in our lives. We are slowly but surely becoming adults and are at the culmination of 18 years at home. But as the hiker only finds the peak of an even higher mountain in the distance, the expanse of our grown-up lives lie before us. For years we have looked forward to being seniors, to be rulers of the school. As that day came, however, our feelings were mixed. Although we relish being at the top of the heap, we are faced with a growing uncertainty as to what our lives after graduation will be like. Instead of the senior school spirit activities we expected, our time is consumed with interviews, jobs, and applications. As the day of graduation nears, we look back on years of childhood and ahead to our futures. We are filled with emotions of excitement mixed with sadness and fear.

GABRIEL GALLAGHER "Gabe"

January 23, 1972 — November 22, 1989

I remember a friend . . . 5'8"; black hair; big, bold eyes. He wore jeans of all colors; liked rap music, especially Cool Moe Dee; enjoyed all pop music, football, tecmo games; I remember it all. Last summer's fun, the beach, laughter — oh, so much laughter — movies, swimming, hot tub action, fights, arguments, home movies we made, dunk contests, baseball cards, Bo Jackson — I remember so much. Like so many others, I remember Gabe, my best friend. I celebrate his life and mourn its premature end — by Roger Collins.

MICHAEL "MIKE" NICKELS

July 3, 1973 — December 20, 1989

Mike was a typical teenage boy. He got into fights; he'd protest that things weren't fair, but he was the first one to respond to anyone's cry for help. He'd fight with his brothers and sister yet sit and tell them stories for hours. He lived on the phone, girls calling him one after the other. He loved to swim but hated the early Saturday morning practices. He could hardly wait to get his own car, sure he could handle it even as he backed my car up, breaking the side view mirror as he ran into the side of the garage. He played the radio so loud it dominated the house. He'd always done all his homework, yet occasionally school reports spoke of missing work. He was a typical, normal 16-year-old boy. He had a genuine love of life; he loved animals, especially birds. He enjoyed reading if it was informative or challenging. In his spare time he wrote short stories and poetry. He enjoyed swimming, weightlifting, track, and girls. I miss Michael. We all do. Here a few things his friends and teachers said about him: he was enthusiastic, quick-witted, sensitive, intelligent, ready to try anything, 100% boy, full of energy, popular, a good dancer, admirable, full of promise and geniality, a good kisser, a wonderful friend. Understanding his death lies beyond us all. Perhaps what remains is to revel in the time we had to share with Mike, the innumerable rays of sunlight his warm presence cast upon us all. Thank you all for caring about him, for being his friends — Jennifer Nickels, Mike's Mom.

Battles

from the day that I can remember, you've been through battles that couldn't be won you've thrown down your sword and took off your armor to be stabbed.
and now you've escaped
and the wounds are healing
the scars do show
you didn't win the battles
but you've won the fight

by Mike Nickels

"LET'S GO,

► Donald Ivan Paul appeared in Milo, Maine on June 20, 1935, one of nine sons. "Joe" fought everyone's battles for them, reminding his older brother Jack of the comic strip hero, "Joe Palooka." The name stuck; only the USAF called him "Donald."

This winter I attended a meeting in Augusta and happened to sit beside a fellow principal who had been a student at Higgins Classical Institute when Joe Paul was a beginning teacher and coach. My colleague asked about Joe and told me he was saddened to hear of Joe's retirement. He went on to tell me that Joe was one of the three people that had had a profound influence on his life. I've thought about that conversation and wondered how many other people have been positively influenced by Joe Paul during his career as teacher, coach, and administrator. I do know that for the past ten years I have been amazed by the positive effect Joe Paul has had on the general school atmosphere and on many individual students. Joe has made Orono Jr.-Sr. High School a better place. I can think of no greater tribute for an educator than to make a difference in a student's life. Joe Paul has been one of those very special people who has made an important difference for many students. All of us at OHS will miss him.

by TOM PERRY, Principal

▲▲ and ▲▲ ◀ A star athlete in Milo, Joe served four years in the USAF, married Nancy Getchell on 9/12/59, and graduated from Husson in 1962. ▲ The couple had four children — David (1960), Jeffrey (1962), Pamela (1964) and Stephanie (1970). Pamela's death from leukemia in 1972 sadly diminished the family circle. A current group photo features: (Front) Stephanie, Nancy, Jeff; (Back) Joe and David Paul.

PEOPLE!"

My first years in teaching included four years at Higgins Classical Institute in Charleston, Maine, and eight years at Greenville High School as business education and driver education teacher. While at Greenville, I coached basketball, baseball, football, track, cross country, and field hockey. I was also athletic director. I arrived at Orono Jr.-Sr. High School in the fall of 1974. From 1974 to 1980, I taught business education and coached varsity softball, freshman and JV basketball, and was an assistant coach in football. In 1980 I became assistant principal. My three children are all graduates of Orono High School: David, class of 1978; Jeffrey, class of 1980, and Stephanie, class of 1988. David attended Eckerd College in Florida. Jeffrey graduated from the University of Maine, and Stephanie, after taking a year off from school to work, is currently a freshman at UM. After 28 years in education, I have decided to try another line of work. I have thoroughly enjoyed my 16 years in Orono and want to thank all past and present students and teachers for their friendship and support. I want to give special thanks to Tom Perry for his aid and comfort during my years at Orono High School. Please be as supportive of the new assistant principal as you have been of me for the past ten years. I want to thank my wife, Nancy, who was a paraprofessional in the Jr. High English Dept. for ten years, for all her help in my career. She was always there to help out in the bad times, as well as the good times. Nancy, Thanks. I love you. As I look back, twenty-eight years have gone by very quickly, but as they say, "Time flies when you're having fun."

by EDWARD "Joe" PAUL

► Recovering from energetic whistling of one line of Bizet's "Toreador Song" for the enjoyment of OHS students (also as a warning of his approach), Joe prepares his list of detentees for afterschool delights.

▲ One of the many joys of Joe's life at OHS was cafeteria monitoring during lunch time. Here he checks out fall schedules with Ryan Elsemore and Dylan Farnum. At other times he intervened in food fights, relieved a milk christening at the hands of exuberant inmates, and herded the junior high schoolers out of the room and sedately down the halls.

GOVERNOR'S GOES
THE EXTRA STEP ...

If you happen to drive by Governor's in Stillwater or Bangor at 4 in the morning, you will see cars parked in the parking lot. These cars belong to our bakers that are inside making fresh bread, rolls, pies, and selecting specials of the day. Not many restaurants go the extra step (it's much easier to take something out of the freezer). One of the reasons Governor's restaurants are so busy is that our customers can tell the difference.

Going to McDonald's® is almost as much a part of school as going to class. You've made us the place to meet, to talk, to have a good time, to celebrate your victories and help forget defeats.

You've made McDonald's more than just another place to eat. And that's why, at McDonald's, we say...

IT'S A GOOD TIME

The hopes and impossible futures of a generation are reflected in the Crimson Crier's glossy pages. A time capsule catapulted into the future by an industrious band of devotees "in love with the products of time," a yearbook charms the moment into immortality.

In March there was a change in certain people in the senior class. They came to school on Monday having slept less over the weekend than a chronic insomniac. They used the week to recover from the weekend, but like others who did the same, they were suffering from severe cases of Deadlinitis and Sixtypagesdownwithfivedays-togo syndrome. The victims? Bill Beutel, Sven Bonnichsen, Nancy Gilles, Matt Ross, and Jean Whitney, the "Faithful Five" who worked all through vacation to present OHS with CRIMSON CRIER '90. Enjoy.
